

Student led society whose purpose is to engage with sustainability

The students' union is a social entity that represents and supports college student interests in academic and social affairs. This is accomplished by participating in policy-making, educational standards development, and providing services.

The students' union also act to protect students' rights to ensure equality and justice, in Al-Zahrawi University College. It also organizes sustainability-related activities through election students' representative in the union, allowing students to vote. The students' union has many environmental activities that contribute to sustainability, such as tree planting campaigns, school rehabilitation, and volunteering campaigns to assist the underprivileged.
